

OUTMET TO PLAY IN OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Boston, Aug. 13.—Francis Outmet leaves for Chicago this afternoon to defend at the Midlothian Country Club next week the title of United States open golf champion which he won last year at The Country Club, Brookline. He will arrive in Chicago tomorrow evening, which gives him three days for practice. The champion goes west in the best of health and spirits and after having put in several weeks of the best golf of his career, not even excepting last fall when he surprised the golfing world by winning the open title.

For the defence of his title Outmet will not have to triumph over quite such a field as that which competed at The Country Club, nor will its quality be exactly as high, seeing that Harry Vardon and Edward Ray will not be there, nor will any of those men in the front ranks of professional golf abroad. Should he defend his title successfully, however, it will be as distinctive a triumph as when he won it, for the flower of professional golf on this side of the Atlantic is found among the 141 names in the entry list, not to mention some amateurs who are just as able as Outmet to force the professionals to the limit of their abilities. These other amateurs include C. E. Evans, Jr. and Warren K. Wood, both extremely fine medal players. Evans once won the Western open championship, and on a western course he is liable to play a game the equal of any professional.

The Boston district is well represented in the championship, for in addition to Outmet there are M. J. Brady, the Massachusetts open champion; T. L. McNamara, who came so near winning the national at Englewood in 1909; Alex. Ross who has held the national title; Orrin Terry, this season at Belmont; and Tom Kerrigan of Dedham, who has been coping along in excellent style. It was something of a coincidence that the drive for the qualifying rounds of the championship should bring four of the Boston golfers in company. Francis Outmet is partnered with Brady for his qualifying round and Ross and Kerrigan are to play together. Outmet was hoping that he would draw one of the leading golfers in the field and he certainly gets his wish in drawing Brady. Now if he can do as well in the championship proper (assuming that he qualifies) he will be decidedly fortunate.

Few of the names familiar to open championship lists are missing from that of this year. One of them is Alex. Campbell of The Country Club, who in some years of the past has been looked upon as a championship contender, but who never came up to his possibilities.

The field is divided into two parts for the qualifying rounds, the first half to play next Tuesday and the second half Wednesday, thirty-two to qualify in each. In looking over the names in the two sections the impression is that the first day's field will see the keenest competition for the thirty-two places, and that is the half in which are Outmet, Brady, Ross and Kerrigan. In it, are such players as Macdonald Smith, who probably will be the individual favorite for the title. Alex. Smith, J. M. Burnes, G. O. Simpson, Tom Anderson, Jack Dowling, Walter Hagin, Peter Barrett.

FORTIFICATIONS OF WARRING NATIONS

By Burton L. Frazier, Staff Correspondent of the International News Service

London, Aug. 13.—Whether the great war now devastating all Europe is destined to last for years, as Napoleon predicted, or only for a matter of months, the military operations on land between England, France, Belgium, Russia, Serbia and Montenegro on one side, and Germany and Austria-Hungary on the other will take place in three "theatres of war," the western "theatre" where England, France and Belgium will meet the hordes of Germany, the eastern "theatre" where Russia, Austria and Germany will meet in battle, and the southern "theatre" where up to now only the Serbians and Austrians have been engaged, but where Russia may take a hand if her troops get by the Germans.

All of these war "theatres" which is how they are designated in military parlance, are hemmed in on all sides by cordons of fortifications. France, Germany and Russia have, since the Franco-Prussian war in 1870 for the most part, built strings of forts all along their frontiers. It was the Belgian forts at Liege that gave such a check to the Germans and caused the Kaiser's troops first pause and then fall back, leaving thousands of their dead on the field. All over Europe there are groups of such fortifications, where there is bound to be desperate and sanguinary fighting.

These fortifications, classified according to the nation by which they are owned, are situated as follows:

France
Following the war of 1870, France constructed several groups of permanent fortifications, parallel to and two days march from the frontier, the Moselle group extending from Belfort to Epinal; the Meuse group, between Toul and Verdun; another group from Epinal to Toul, and a group extending between Longwy and Montmédy.

In addition to these forts, the French border in the north is closed by fortifications at Launoy, Besancon and Dijon. Besides these, France has ample fortifications at Brionne, Lille, Bayonne, Brest, Douai and Grenoble. Around these forts would take place the decisive fighting of the Franco-German war, should the Germans succeed in defeating the French now in Alsace, and also get by the dauntless Belgians. Should France be beaten back from the frontier, she still would have defenses at Paris, Dunkirk, Lorient, Cherbourg and elsewhere.

Germany
Apparently more fearful of France than any other antagonist, Germany has concentrated most for her fortifications along the Rhine. There she has fortified Neu Breisch, Nalaz, Culmburg, Gernersheim and Helmsburg. In Alsace the Germans have the fortified camp of Molsheim. In Lorraine they have the fortresses of Metz and Diedenhofen.

On the east, against Russia, Germany has the fortresses of Posen, Konigsburg, Breslau and others. Should Germany be defeated on her frontiers, she still would have countless fortresses, including those at Cologne, Ulm, Magdeburg, Spandau, Kustrin, Kiel, Danzig and Neisse.

Russia
On the German-Austrian frontier, Russia has a line of fortifications at Warsaw, Rowna, Litowsky, Grodno and Kovno. In addition to these, Russia has established a score or more of fortified military camps along her frontier.

Russia has a secondary line of fortifications extending through Vilna, Riga, Slobinsk, Smolensk and Kiev. Besides these forts, Russia has massive defenses at Warsaw, Odessa, Helingsfors and St. Petersburg.

Austria-Hungary
The main Austrian frontier fortifications are at Cracow, Przemyel, Budapest and Semlin. Also Vienna and other interior cities are strongly fortified.

England
The entire coast of Great Britain is protected by fortifications, but it is scarcely within the range of possibility that with the huge English fleet on the sea, there will be any land fighting in the British Isles.

Serbia
Belgrade, the capital, is the only fortified city in Serbia, but the country for the most part is mountainous, and the ridges and valleys form natural defenses of the Balkans that would make it hazardous for Austrians and Germans to attempt to invade the country. Supplementing the forts built along the frontiers of the various countries now at war, almost the whole of Europe is well protected by natural defenses, mountains, rivers and valleys, narrow passes and deserts. The coun-

Bill Bailey Jumps to Federals and Gets Back in Big League

Baltimore, Aug. 14.—Bill Bailey is again in a big league—that is, if you call the Federal aggregation a big league. Bill has jumped from the Providence team of the International league to play under the banner of Otto Knabe for the Terrapins. Bailey was for several years a member of the St. Louis American league team. He had plenty of speed and curves in those days, but he was a bundle of nerves, and he pitched his head off all the time. So long as he could keep men off the bases he was a wonder, but when his teammates made errors or his kindred opponents on the bases, Bailey went to pieces. Along about the fifth or sixth inning Bailey used to get into a hole, and as he had been doing his best all the time he had no reserve to draw on, and the beans were spilled. In the International league Bailey has been doing good work for several years, and Federal league fans in Baltimore are pleased to see him wearing a Terrapin uniform.

WITHDRAWS GUARD OVER KRONPRINZESSIN CECILIE

Newport, Aug. 14.—Destroyer Warrington, which was dispatched to watch the German steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which ran into Bar Harbor with its precious gold, is no longer held there by the government and can leave whenever Capt. Pollack deems it wise to do so.

The Warrington has seen to it that the ship did not violate the neutrality laws and the United States government is satisfied the steamer has not been fitted out for use for war in a neutral port.

ton. Quit punishing your feet by using toe-eating salves and ointments. To use knives, files, scissors and razors, slicing and hacking at a corn, only make it grow faster and bigger. It also brings danger of bleeding and blood poison. The new way, the new principle never known before in corn history, is "GETS-IT." It's a liquid—2 drops on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and out it comes! You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never fails. Try "GETS-IT" tonight on corns, calluses, warts or bunions. ## DAILY SPORT LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, Aug. 14.—Chris Mathewson, the author pitcher, in a recent article stating this was an easy year for umpires, remarked that even his boss, John McGraw, was "off" the arbitrators this year, and that John was acting real polite and refined in his attitude toward the umpires.

Quite a number of persons will be surprised to hear this. Among those will be one John McGraw, sometimes called "Muggsy" McGraw, and at other times "Hill-from-Behind" McGraw. Some of the National League umpires will be surprised, too. To the best of their recollection, they have had to chase John from the pastime just about as often this year as ever before. And that means they've done some considerable chasing.

Perhaps what Chris meant to impart to the multitude was that John doesn't say as much to the umpires as he used to say in the dear old days that are dead. There may be some truth in that. The umpires in late years have come to know John. Just as soon as they declare a Giant out or the other fellow safe, they look toward John. If they notice that he is about to open his mouth they can anticipate what is coming—to them. So they just wave John from the pasture and thus save their feelings from injury by the harsh, cruel words that John can connect at a moment's notice.

If the article that Chris wrote merely mentioned John's name as a party who no longer heckles the umpires, one might have gained the idea that Chris wrote that article just to get a stand in with his boss. But Chris didn't stop with lauding John as a reformed umpire-hater. He mentioned the names of Charlie Griffith, the peppery leader of the Senators; and Frank Chance, the Yankee manager. He declared that "like McGraw" they no longer cause trouble for the umpires.

Griff is "off" the umpires—when the police are around. At other times—well, read the dispatches from the different towns where the Senators stage their ball games—and where Griff stages his little act, "Taming the Umpire."

It wasn't so very long ago that Griff showed how thoroughly he has his temper under control by forfeiting a game in Philadelphia because he objected to some of the rulings by an umpire named Chilly. And it wasn't so long ago that Griff and almost his entire team got mixed up in a few doings in Detroit. It wasn't so very long ago that Connie Mack, the peaceable Quaker City resident, declared that because of Griffith's actions on a ball field and his conduct toward umpires, that "Griffith ought to be driven out of baseball."

As to Frank Chance, Chris may be partially right. Whether Chance has reformed is a question. But it's true that he hasn't been shooed off the field as often as he used to be. Among some of the reasons for this are that he hasn't been on the field as regularly as in the old days and that he's now leading a way down second division club. The Yanks, when they get their heatings usually get such decisive ones that there is no question about it—and little chance to blame it on the umpire. An umpire can be blamed for many things but you can't blame him because the other fellow soaked out a triple with the bases loaded. You can't blame him when your fielder muffs a fly ball, nor can you blame him when your club fails to hit or fails to hold and your pitchers fail to pitch.

But, of course, you can blame the umpire once in a while. When chance presents itself Chance presents himself and diligently prunes the business of blaming the umpire. Added years haven't taken the sting from his speech, and that's one of the reasons why Chance, in ratio to protests, has been chased just as often this year as he was in the old Cub days.

Captain and Mrs. Josiah N. Jones have sold their house in town and are soon to move to Lawrence, Mass., where they will make their home in the future. Their departure will be greatly regretted for both are well known and have made many friends while residing in this city.

ENGLISH SHIPS ORDERED TO ATTACK AUSTRIAN NAVY

London, Aug. 13.—Orders were today flashed to the British fleet in the Mediterranean to strike against the Austrians. The orders as sent out from the admiralty announced that a state of war with Austria has existed since midnight. The British admiral commanding in the Mediterranean was therefore ordered to proceed against the Austrians at once. The Austrian fleet is believed to be lying off its naval base in the Adriatic. While details of the present strength of the Mediterranean fleet are withheld for strategic reasons, it is known that when war broke out there were three of the first-class battle cruisers and several armored cruisers and accompanying destroyers at the Mediterranean naval base. They have been in pursuit of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau and are now probably near the Austrian coast, where the French fleet is also understood to be.

Rome, Aug. 13.—Steamers reaching Venice today report that the Austrian fleet is cleared for action, lying about 15 miles off the Austrian naval base of Pola.

The British and French Mediterranean fleets, including the British battle cruisers are near the entrance to the Adriatic and a naval battle of magnitude is impending.

The Pola forts are not of sufficient strength to withstand a heavy bombardment by the allied fleets should the Austrians take refuge inside of the harbor.

REFORESTING WASTE LAND INCREASING EACH YEAR

Forestry Commission Plans Large Shipments of Trees for Fall Planting—Last Fall's Plantations Successful.

The Forestry Commission is arranging for an increased distribution of trees from the state nursery this fall for planting on waste land. Last fall over 150,000 trees were distributed and despite the unusually severe winter, reports indicate that fully 90 percent are growing well. With the well-distributed rainfall and moist condition of the ground, this fall bids fair to be a good season for tree-planting.

This year to be sold are white, red and Scotch pine and European larch, all adapted to light or well-drained soil. It is inadvisable to plant spruce, fir or ash in the fall, as these trees are better suited to moist soil and the continued freezing and thawing during the winter may heave them from the ground. The prices of trees range from $2.50 to $5.00 per thousand.

It is gratifying to realize that each year the amount of land in New Hampshire that is reforested with a valuable stand of young trees is increasing since the Forestry Commission started the state nursery in 1900. The number of trees distributed in recent years tells a significant story:

1910	60,000 trees
1911	182,000 trees
1912	250,000 trees
1913	408,000 trees

In the spring of 1914 over 60,000 trees were distributed and with the fall shipments this year's record will be over 1,000,000 trees. While the amount of reforesting is not by any means comparable to the lumber cut, yet the steady increase of the work reflects a growing confidence of land owners in the commercial practicability of forest planting.

Upon application to the Forestry Commission, Concord, N. H., a blank will be sent for ordering trees and a bulletin describing the methods of planting.

CHARGES AGAINST GERMANY

Brussels, via Paris, Aug. 12.—It is stated here today that the intervention of the neutral powers is to be asked for by the Belgian Foreign Minister through their diplomatic representatives in the Belgian capital in reference to alleged repeated violations by the German troops in Belgium of the Geneva and Hague conventions. M. Davignon, the Belgian Foreign Minister has drawn up a long list of cases declared to be fully attested of the killing of the wounded, the abuse of the white flag, the killing of civilians and the seizure of private and public funds.

Harrowing stories continue to be told of alleged German brutalities. They are accused of burning and pillaging villages and of shooting villagers without provocation.

It is alleged that when German cavalry enters a town they make first for the municipal treasury and then for the banks, taking whatever cash they can find.

Peasants report that the Germans are waging a war of extermination. They allege that the troops are firing on priests and are killing and wounding people indiscriminately. Whole villages, according to their stories, are being wiped out by the invaders.

The following official statement was issued in Paris last night: "A wounded French cavalryman at Metz declares he saw a German cavalryman shoot a wounded Frenchman. He says he heard five or six other shots and saved himself by feigning death. The Germans are wearing uniforms taken from Belgians killed in battle."

AMERICANS WIN AND LOSE IN INTERNATIONAL TENNIS

The first matches in the Davis Cup international tennis, were played on Thursday afternoon at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hill, Long Island, N. Y., and the stadium was halved, that is the Americans won one and the Australians won the other.

The first match was between H. Norris Williams, U. S. vs. Anthony F. Wilding of Australia, and Wilding won it in three straight sets.

The second match was between Maurice E. McLoughlin and Norman P. Brooks and it was won by McLoughlin in straight sets, but after one of the most sensational matches ever played in the Davis Cup, McLoughlin won the first set in 17 to 16, and after that Brooks could not hold out against the California cyclone who won the next two sets 6-3, 6-3.

BOYS' SPORTS AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

The boys' sports were held at the playground Thursday afternoon, they having been postponed from Wednesday on account of rain. It was found necessary to divide the contestants into three groups. The additional class C was composed of the older boys.

The records made thus far this year in Class A were broken in three instances by O'Leary in the standing broad, the running broad, and the running hop, step and jump.

According to a computation being made by members of the relief committee, Cologne seems to be the centre of the greatest language collection, where it is said to be lying in the open street, as the station is being used for military purposes. The boxes will go into millions if it cannot be procured. One trunk contains an inventor's plans, for which the owner is willing to give a reward of $500 if secured.

Numbers of women bewail their fate saying their clothes will be out of style when their trunks are returned to their owners. A vaudeville artist and his wife, who had all their conjuring apparatus in ten trunks and are stranded here, say they will be unable to make a living unless they get their material. The manuscript for two books was lost by an American author in Germany. Thousands of cameras have been confiscated and artists have had all their sketches confiscated wherever they have been of a landscape nature.

TAKE 8 O'CLOCK CAR

The members of the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception will leave on the 8 o'clock car Sunday morning for Hampton Beach, where they will render the student service in connection with the dedication of the new church there.

There were three drinks, one for begging and one for safe keeping on the police blotter last night.

A Good Example.

Whatever may be one's opinion of labor unionism in the aggregate, it cannot be denied that it has some good qualities and that the unions occasionally set an example that might well be followed by others.

Such an example is now being set by the labor unions of Massachusetts, which will secure complete records of the votes of all state legislators and representatives of the state in Congress on matters of concern to organized labor, and these records will be supplied to every workingman in the state, union and non-union, before election, to the end that those coming up for re-election may be dealt with in accordance with what the workingmen consider their merits or demerits.

This is straight work of a kind to which no one can take exception. It is the business of people living under a representative government to know what their representatives are doing, and this is a duty that is altogether too largely neglected. The average voter casts his ballot with great zeal and then goes about his business, letting legislators and legislators take care of themselves. In too many cases he does not know what he wants in legislation and is indifferent to what he gets.

Not so with the labor union men—in Massachusetts at least. They have ideas of their own, and their interest in legislation does not cease with the casting of their ballots. There are certain things they want done, and they propose to place in office men who will do those things, so far as it lies in their power.

This is business. It is the course that should be taken by every man interested in legislation, as every American citizen should be. It is the calling upon every legislator to give an account of his stewardship before presenting himself for further honors, and it is a notice that he is not working in the dark, but that those who placed him in office know what he is doing and propose to govern themselves accordingly.

If the voters generally would adopt this plan there would be less careless and mischievous legislation than there is. The labor union men of Massachusetts have set an example worthy of emulation by all voters.

Time for the Government to Act.

The government should convene the United States grand jury in every state at the same time to investigate the criminal action of certain companies and concerns that have increased the price of food stuffs. With crops that may have to rot in the field owing to their size, and with no shipments abroad, it is an outrage for any individual or corporation to take advantage of the European war as a pretext to rob the people. This is the time to strike and with Congress in session there ought to be a way found to jail some of the robbers.

The bubonic plague is disappearing from New Orleans and there have been no new cases reported in the last fortnight. Costa Rica has raised her quarantine against the city and her example will probably be followed by the whole world within a short time. The health authorities of the city have made a determined and successful fight and proved anew the value of modern medical science and sanitation.

Now that means for getting home are more available, it is reported that many Americans in Europe are not so anxious to come. It would be just like a lot of them to want to stay and "see the fun." However, the ships that sail will be well patronized by people who will not land at Ellis Island.

It is said that American manufacturers may be compelled to make their own dye stuffs for a time. If they learn the trick the countries from which these have been imported in the past may wake up to find that they have lost a good trade when the war is over.

If the war cuts off importations to an extent to seriously affect the national revenues patriotic citizens will not object to a stamp tax, though it would be unpleasant to be subjected to such a tax by the troubles of other nations.

The proposed peace treaties in Washington ought to go through with flying colors, provided the foreign powers are agreeable. And it seems as if all of them might be glad to know that they are at peace with somebody just at this time.

The Panama canal will be opened Saturday, and it is a comfort to think that its use will be for commerce and not for war.

Cheer up, not all is lost. The price of fish is reported to be going down.

And all the warring "Christian" nations are praying to the same God.

Business is dull at Ellis Island. The old countries have use at present for all their "spare hands."

French Troops Prepared For Years To Fight Against German Invasion.

Photos by American Press Association.

For forty years the French people had waited to attempt to wipe out the old scores of the Franco-Prussian war; therefore when the general European war broke out the French army was ready to render an accounting. It was mobilized quickly and sent to the frontier to battle with the advancing Germans. General Joseph Joffre, commander in chief of the army, was in command. He is shown with his aids in the bottom picture as he looked in the field during recent maneuvers. The upper picture shows French troops at rest during a march.

NEW CASTLE

Seemingly more insistent and alluring than ever is the call of New Castle this season with crowded hostilities, all of the cottages having been taken early in the season, many stopping at private cottages and to the socially fagged island town looks on the horizon as a very haven of peace and healing.

Mr. Justin Yeaton and family, after a week's journey at their cottage, have returned to their home in Springfield.

Mr. George Meloon and Capt. Fred Lusk are in line to tell one relative to the season of 1914 at New Castle.

Mrs. Florence Kimball of Danville is the guest of her father, Mr. John Ruse.

Mrs. Bernice Spear of Boston is passing her vacation with her sister, Miss Maude Trefethen.

Mrs. Sara Fay and son Ralph, after a six weeks' sojourn with Rufus Emery and family, have returned to their home in Swampscott.

Mrs. Marianus Amazeen of Haverhill is the guest of her son, Luther Amazeen.

Mr. Cecil Parillon is very lame occasioned by a misstep while at work on a step ladder Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Lizzie Clutch, after a visit with relatives, has returned to her home in Danville.

Mr. Edward Baker is rapidly convalescing from his recent illness, to the delight of his many friends.

Mr. Charles Prochaska is able to be out and attend to his business after an attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. May Patten and little daughter Rebecca, who have been guests at the Ruse cottage, have returned to their home in Newburyport.

Mr. Harry Chick and family of Portsmouth are occupying the Giles bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frisbee of Boston are guests at the Roberts cottage.

It is very gratifying to learn that Capt. John Amazeen of Fort Caswell, N. C., is to have a month's vacation and with his family is expected to arrive the last of the month.

Mr. Albert Blackford has arrived home from a short trip to Keene.

Mr. Horace Blackman of Cambridge is a welcome visitor to the island town, this making the 20th consecutive summer.

Don't forget to attend the tea and sale from 3 to 6 o'clock at the public library Saturday. It is the wish of Mrs. Ida Craven Hackett that every one in the town shall be present. Undoubtedly no one would have the hardship to put aside this wish. The summer element is leaving nothing undone to make this sale the greatest success ever. Let everyone make a personal application of this wish and go and by so doing show their appreciation of the privilege of the library and of the untiring efforts of the people who summer with us.

GIRLS' SPORTS AT THE PLAY-GROUNDS

ADDOGRAM NO. 12.

Some people's idea of co-operation is to let the other fellow shake the tree, while they eat the apples.

True co-operation is a pull together for the success goal. When national advertisers use the newspapers to create a demand for their products, shrewd merchants co-operate by showing the goods. It is a "pull together" that means increased sales and satisfied patrons.

HALF THE WORLD IS AT WAR

By Lawrence Melton, Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

London, Aug. 14.—More than one-half of the world and its people are involved in the great war now spreading over all Europe.

That is not a broad statement or a glittering generality. Stupendous, stunning as it may appear at first glance, a study of statistics will show it to be a fact that over fifty per cent. of the earth's area, land and sea, and slightly in excess of fifty per cent. of the world's population, are directly concerned in the conflagration.

Staunchly, there are about 36,000,000 square miles of the world's land area. The Powers now at war and their colonies occupy approximately 28,982,996 square miles, a trifle more than half the total. The seas of the world are controlled by the powers in about the same proportion as the land.

Whitaker's London Almanack estimates the world's total population in 1912 at 1,623,300,000 people. The warring powers and their colonies contain 883,400,000 people, considerably more than one-half.

With so much of the world controlled by the warring nations, no grand division of the earth, no continent and none of the great oceans is without the very real possibility of becoming a battle ground for conflict between the nationals of the contending powers.

East of the continents, Europe, since the time of Columbus, has extended its claims over the lands and populations everywhere until today its great governments overshadow the greater share of the world's people as well as the lands.

The countries now directly involved in the war hold these areas and populations:

British Empire, 13,523,712 square miles; 435,000,000 people.

Russian Empire, 8,647,667 square miles; 166,260,000 people.

France and her colonies, 4,372,080 square miles; 83,860,000 people.

German Empire, 1,243,806 square miles; 80,000,000 people.

Belgium and the Congo Free State, 911,000 square miles; 23,000,000 people.

Austria-Hungary, 261,099 square miles; 53,340,000 people.

Serbia, 23,600 square miles; 4,000,000 people.

Germany has secured a foothold in Africa where she controls about one million square miles in the southern part of the continent, German East Africa and German West Africa. Between these two provinces which are about equal in size, lies the great South African British Empire. With Germany entirely eliminated, Africa would be far on the way toward being an English and French continent.

France at present holds more African territory than any other nation, aggregating more than four million square miles, or a greater area than that of the United States, with Alaska and the American insular possessions included. This French territory takes in most of the Sahara Desert, Algeria in the north and a vast fertile area in the valleys of the Nile and the Niger.

Egypt is still nominally a dependency of the Turkish Empire but for all practical purposes both Upper Egypt and Lower Egypt are British possessions. The Sudan provinces of England now join the British territories in East Africa which includes a frontage of about four hundred miles on the Indian Ocean. Thus the route is nearly all in British territory for the "Cape to Cairo" railroad.

In the very heart of tropical Africa lies the Congo Free State, with nearly a million square miles, nominally a Belgian dependency. It touches British South Africa and also the Belgian Rondon holdings. It requires no bold stretch of the imagination to conceive that the present great war may change the map of Africa to a considerable extent. When the Great Powers sit down around the council table at the end of the conflict, England, in return for her support of Belgium against the Germans, might easily ask that the sovereignty of the Congo Free State be entrusted to her.

France might well be expected to assent to this, because her African holdings would likely be consolidated and considerably extended as the result of her participation in the war. With the Congo Free State in her possession, Great Britain would then hold a great strip of Africa running almost due north and south from the Mediterranean to the Cape. She would control the interior lake region of the Dark Continent whose vast bodies of navigable fresh water are fairly comparable to the Great Lakes of the United States; the Congo Valley; the gold and diamond reefs of South Africa and practically every mile of the immense and rich valley of the Nile.

The consolidated British Empire in Africa, thus brought into being, would exceed the British holdings in any other continent, not excepting Australia and the Dominion of Canada.

On the other hand, should Germany be the dictator in the peace terms at the end of the great struggle, she would undoubtedly exact a large part of the French possessions in Africa. Besides the holdings in the Sahara, the Congo and the Niger Valley, France owns the great island of Madagascar. It is not improbable that if Germany again, as in 1871, was in a position to force terms on

CURRENT OPINION

Public Schools Best Place for Growth of American Citizenship.

Given a cultivated trained teacher of sound mind and body, who goes to work at peace with God and man, the school will be the best place in the world for the growth of the child in practical righteousness and American citizenship.

Not much instruction, either secular or religious, can be without a well equipped teacher, whose personality, learning, moral, and religious life appeal to those under her care. The teacher cannot teach what she does not know and cannot give to others the religious life which she does not possess.—By Joseph Swain of the National Educational Association.

SHOOTS WIFE IN HOSPITAL

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Tillie Rolfe, 29 years old, lay in the room adjoining the operating table at the Swedish hospital here today while nurses hurried about preparing for the operation for appendicitis that was to be performed on her in a few moments.

John Rolfe, 40 years old, her husband, a wealthy farmer, of Randolph, Kan., drove up to the hospital in a motor car.

"I want to see my wife," he told the head nurse. An attendant led him back to his wife's room.

"Oh, John, why don't you quit drinking?" Mrs. Rolfe said as he entered. Then the door closed.

Five minutes later five shots were heard. Physicians and nurses ran into the room and found that three bullets had entered Mrs. Rolfe's body.

Rolfe lay on the floor, a revolver grasped in his hand and two wounds in his head. He had shot his wife and himself.

Rolfe died shortly after. The woman died an hour later.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Still With the G. O. P.

Editor of the Herald—An item in the Herald of yesterday of a political nature would intimate that I am in the arena of state politics and as a progressive. I have never enlisted under any other than the banner of the G. O. P., nor very active at that. Somebody has gone wrong. I aspire to no place in the state or nation other than that of a private in its full sense. If you deem it best you can correct the idea as published by saying that my name was thus used without consultation. Yours,

JAMES H. DOW.

CLASS REUNION BIG SUCCESS

Members of Class of 1913
Have Enjoyable Time at Isles of Shoals.

An enjoyable time was passed last evening by all who attended the "get together party" held by the Class of 1913, Portsmouth High school, at the Oceanic, Isles of Shoals. The affair was a big success—another 1913 success, as they had hoped to make it. Much credit is due the committee for the outcome.

At 7 o'clock the large party steamed down the harbor on the Juliette. It was a merry gathering. Everything combined to make the trip an ideal one. The evening was not too cool and the water was very smooth. On the outward trip the Oceanic Hotel orchestra rendered many pleasing selections. A feature enjoyed by all was the rising of the moon on the ocean.

When the Oceanic was reached, dancing was participated in by the greater part of the company, some preferring to walk along the shore enjoying the moonlight view. During intermission refreshments were served. Then dancing was continued until a late hour. Around midnight the party returned to this city having thoroughly enjoyed every minute of their evening of pleasure. The patrons of the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stillaber and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Outfield.

The officers of the class are: President, Norman E. Rand; vice president, Marion Craig; secretary, Beatrice Meads; treasurer, Fred C. Proctor, Jr.

INJURED BY AUTO.

Gordon Hurley Is Knocked Down and Dragged by Machine While at Play.

Gordon Hurley, aged 10 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hurley of Jefferson street, was injured this forenoon at the corner of Bellingham and Middle streets by an automobile owned and driven by John Parlin.

The story has it that the lad was playing with other boys on the sidewalk and as Mr. Parlin turned into Middle street the Hurley boy came off the sidewalk backward directly in front of the auto, which was moving slowly at the time. He was knocked down and dragged some distance but none of the wheels passed over him. Dr. Woodbury and Mr. Parlin picked up the boy and rushed him to the hospital where Dr. Taylor later attended him.

The lad was suffering from a cut inside his mouth and other cuts and bruises about the body, but no bones were broken. He will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

$36,000, by Terms of Will.

New York, Aug. 13.—A copy of the will of Lillian Nordica, the singer, who died in Australia last May, filed in the surrogate's court today provides that her entire estate with the exception of special bequests aggregating $36,000 be divided among her three sisters, Imogene Castille of Los Angeles, Annie Baldwin of Boston and Lona Walker of Boston.

The value of the estate was not disclosed. To Maria Alpino, named in the will as faithful servant, the singer bequeathed $5,000, and to E. Romarino Stinson, described as "having been with me for a period of 16 years" $30,000. With the copy of the will was filed a petition by Robert S. Baldwin, an executor which states that George W. Young, Nordica's husband, has the original will but declines to surrender or file it. The petition prays that he be compelled to do so.

IN MOVING PICTURES.

Scenes In and About Portsmouth Will Be Featured in the Movies.

Portsmouth people will soon be given a treat in the line of moving pictures. The manager of the Portsmouth theatre has arranged to have Portsmouth taken in moving pictures. The object of these pictures will be to show Portsmouth's many and varied attractions as a summer city, as a manufacturing city and as an unexcelled seaport. These pictures will show street scenes, beautiful residences, historic houses, manufacturing plants and the beautiful harbor.
